We fill...

We make Fill and fill things that people use to fill their homes or give away to fill their hearts.

We fill trucks, warehouses and orders, but most importantly, we fill promises.

The products we make fill the space where passion and purpose come together.

Every product made is filled with love and inspiration, which is highly contagious.

For generations, we have worked to fulfill the needs of our customers and the missions of many charitable organizations, leaving us FULL of pride.

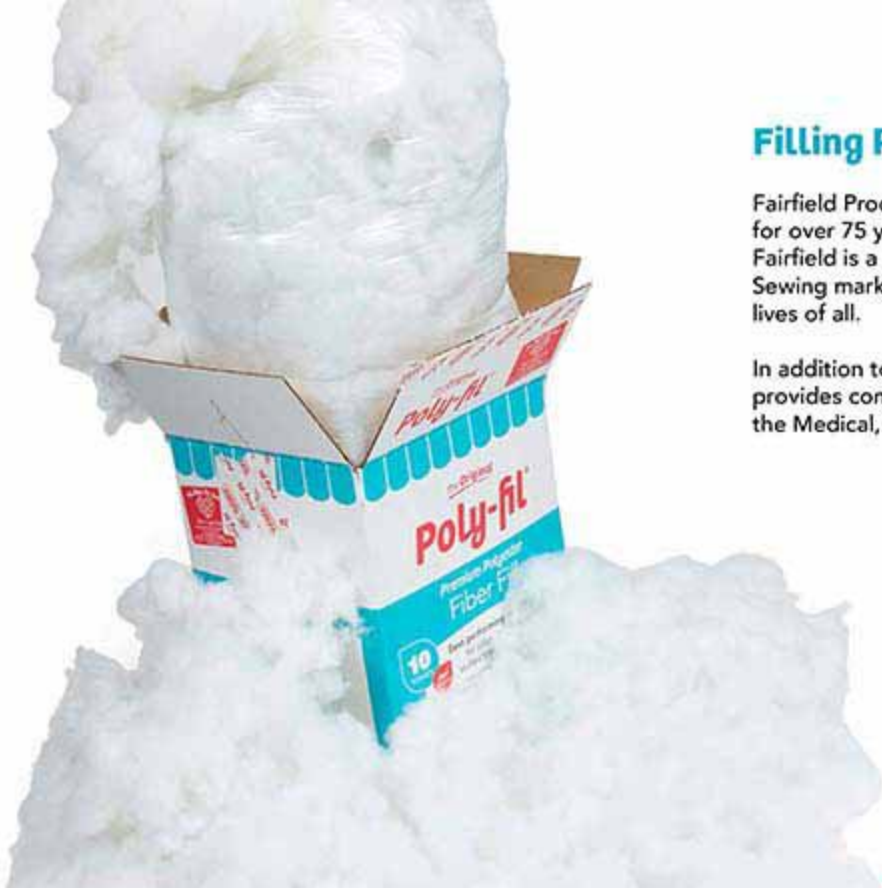

History and Reputation

Founded in 1940 by Sam Young, Fairfield Processing Corporation was focused on processing natural fibers for the hat and clothing industries.

Over time, haberdashery needs changed. In the 1960's, Fairfield was one of the first to test early innovations in revolutionary polymer materials. This resulted in a highly resilient, fluffy fiber, named Poly-Fil® that was quickly recognized as a superior soft-toy stuffing. The product gained national distribution and became a market leader and top performer.

Family owned and operated for over three generations.

Innovation...

In the 1960's, Fairfield was one of the first to test early innovations in revolutionary polymer materials. This resulted in a highly resilient, fluffy fiber, named Poly-fil®.

Today, Fairfield continues to lead the marketplace by providing solutions for consumers' evolving interests and demands with innovations in technical materials and processing.

Fairfield's proprietary process for exploding Poly-fil® fiber to create multi-directional strands allows us to achieve volume and resilience unparalleled in the industry.

The majority of Fairfield's fiber related products are made from recycled PET water bottles.
